

Tara McCashin – Director
Architect AAA

Tara joined the board in the fall of 2024.

Tara has led her career with enthusiasm and drive, taking every leadership opportunity available since graduating in 2016. She started Claroscuro Architecture with co-owner Ignacio de Lorenzo in 2022, her portion of work driving towards commercial projects with local business owners creating small scale charming developments, indigenous not-for-profit led projects, and daycares, with a goal for clients to move towards net zero. She has a passion for complex systematic issues, such as properly designing for and consulting with people who cannot advocate for themselves. She has a deep, heart-felt connection with her designs and loves to get to the root of what her clients really want and need through thorough active listening and high-quality communication. She is also on the future leaders committee in CREW, encouraging and educating young females about the profession and the industry, with the hope that they will have the support necessary to thrive in their careers.
